Who to See?

When calling the Surgery for an appointment, who is it you really need to see?

Not necessarily a Doctor. Traditionally Patients did not have a choice in the past as it was only a Doctor who was available.

Often there wasn't even a Receptionist, you just sat and waited your turn. Things are very different today.

These days there are many highly qualified Clinicians such as Advanced Nurse Practitioners, Practice Nurses and Healthcare Assistants working in a progressive Surgery such as ours, who are more than capable of helping with your medical needs. You can see who and how many by clicking onto the website under '@Practice Staff'.

It may also be an option to direct to a Pharmacist.

The receptionists, whether answering the phone or speaking directly, will in future ask a number of questions to help direct Patients to the support they need first time. They are not being intrusive and have been trained in this process which is being rolled out in every Practice throughout the Country.
